Consultant Ecologist

Consultant ecologist required either part time or on occasional contract basis by small development company with a diverse range of sites across the UK.

The successful applicant will have approximately 5 years experience in consultancy or similar work and a good understanding of the current development and planning process in the UK.

Working as part of a team of other professionals you will provide support and advice at various stages from initial viability to construction and land management through biodiversity.

You will be able to produce reports to a high standard and liaise with other consultants and local authority representatives.

This is a great opportunity for someone who has enthusiasm for their work and is able to be flexible and work with others.

Driving licence desirable.

Based in Croydon but sites are across the country.

Salary commensurate with experience.
