

Senior Ecologist, Cardiff, UK

Soltys Brewster Ecology Ltd is a progressive, independent ecological consultancy with offices in Cardiff and Belfast. Working in close collaboration with Soltys Brewster Consulting, we are able to provide ecological, landscape and environmental planning services on a wide range of commercial, residential and infrastructure projects ranging in scale from single building conversions to major brownfield redevelopment.

We are currently seeking to recruit a Senior Ecologist to assist with our project portfolio. The post would be based in Cardiff but with the opportunity of working throughout the UK or Eire dependent on project requirements. The post would suit an individual with proven ability in senior level consultancy looking for fresh challenges or an ecologist with 2-3 years UK consultancy experience seeking to advance their career development. We would also welcome applications from candidates with demonstrable non-consultancy ecological experience.

Practical application of standard Phase I Habitat survey techniques and/or good botanical identification skills together with a full UK driving licence are considered essential together with at least one protected species survey licence. A bat licence from any nature conservation agency and full membership of IEEM would be particularly advantageous.

The successful candidate will have a clear understanding of domestic wildlife legislation and planning policy and be able to effectively communicate (both verbally and in writing) with a potentially wide and varied target audience.

The post offers an exciting opportunity for career development within a multi-disciplinary environment as part of an expanding team, with a competitive salary and training package linked to experience and qualifications.
