

Principal Ecologist

£45,000 per annum dependant on experience

Woking or London Holborn

About the role

An excellent opening has arisen for a Principal level Ecologist to join our ecology team. We have a strong business profile and due to demand for our services there is a requirement to expand further. Based in Woking or London Holborn, you would be responsible for leading the south-east ecology team which is 15 strong and includes 3 senior ecologists. In addition to the provision of high quality ecology consulting services, you will be expected to take a key role in business development and team management.

About you

You'll have a very strong track record of consultancy work with proven technical experience in Ecological Impact Assessment. Preferably with significant survey and mitigation experience of one or more protected species, with bats a distinct advantage; you'll also have proven experience of excellent project, client and staff management. Public Inquiry experience would be advantageous whilst proven business development capabilities and a good track record in winning work is essential. With a relevant Degree from a UK university and broad experience of UK Ecology, including planning and legislation, you'll hold full membership of IEEM and must meet the criteria for Chartered Environmentalist status (CEnv). Due to the nature of the position it is absolutely essential that you have strong written and communication skills.
